User Login Script

This is my userlogin.php.

When the user clicks on my LIST link in the navigation (this links to mailing_list.php) and the session AdminID does not exist or is not set users are redirected to userlogin.php – the page below. Update feature allows the admin to edit a record.

Mailing List Script

After the user has successfully logged in with the correct credentials admin/passme they are redirected to mailing_list.php, which looks like the screenshot below.

NOTICE the Session AdminID value and the last login date is presented above the data table. Here's a clue, I set the last login date to a session variable.

Also notice that the email address displayed on the screen is now encrypted.

At the top, there is a header with a kitchen image on the left and contact information on the right: "WP Eatery", "1385 Woodroffe Ave, Ottawa ON", and "Tel: (613)727-4723". Update feature

After the user has successfully logged in with the correct credentials admin/passme ,

He may click on the LIST button. This feature allows him to see all contact records from the mailing list. Under the customer name/id there is hyper link that will display a smaller form that allows the user to see and update the contact information (name, phone, email, referrer). Make sure this feature to redirect a user to userlogin.php if credentials entered are wrong.
